

Colm O'Boyle's Ceilidh

Jig

Colm O'Boyle's Ceilidh: named for an old friend on the occasion of a birthday celebration. Since he comes from Donegal, the tune tries to reflect something of what the 18th century would have called "the Hibernian humours."

Craighall Crescent

Jig

Craighall Crescent: the idea for this came when overnighting with some friends who lived in that street in Edinburgh; the thing that appealed to me was the way it ended on an offbeat at the end of the line.
