

Alistair Fergus Ewan

Hornpipe

The image displays a musical score for a piece titled "Hornpipe" by Alistair Fergus Ewan. The score is written in treble clef with a 2/4 time signature. It consists of ten staves of music. The notation includes various rhythmic values such as eighth and sixteenth notes, often beamed together. There are several triplet markings (indicated by a '3' below the notes) and repeat signs (double bar lines with dots). The piece concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.

Alistair Fergus Ewan: named for the son of a friend, one of the best university administrators in Scotland and who died tragically young. This is a young man's tune, the first piece I was ever satisfied with, although perhaps it smacks a little too obviously of raw ambition.
