

The Red Devils over Arnhem

March

The Red Devils over Arnhem (from previous page): I picked this up off an old pipe band record many years ago; played by the K.O.S.B., I think. I do not know who composed this, or even if it has ever previously been in print; it goes with a good swing if played up to time.

The tombs of Allied and German airmen from the Second World war lie side by side in the graveyard beside the old Chapel of St. Fergus with its Pictish stones, north of Dyce, Aberdeen
